NEWS FLASH: OSHA has issued almost $4 million in fines for COVID-19 related violations. Do you know the requirements for employees that wear PPE in your workplace? Learn some of the changes to workplace safety.

EPA just proposed $20 million in fines for improper paint handling and disposal. Do you know the rules that could affect you? New changes on spill reporting in Florida. Last year alone there were more than 30,000 spills large enough to require reporting to the federal government. Failure to make the necessary notifications can result in substantial fines. Fuel products require reporting in some situations if only one drop is spilled. Do you know what they are?

Do you have fuel tanks? If so, you could be subject to EPA's Spill Prevention, Control, and Countermeasures rule (SPCC). Are you prepared?

Last year an employee was criminally charged for using his cell phone while pumping used oil, resulting in a spill. The company was required to pay all clean up costs. Learn the requirements that affect you!

OSHA requires spill response training for employees responding to an emergency. Responding to a spill utilizing your own personnel and equipment costs a fraction of what an environmental contractor would charge you. Even after a traffic accident regardless of fault any spilled fuel products or pesticides must be cleaned up! Sigma Consulting & Training, Inc. is offering chemical spill response training in your area to prepare your employees to respond to an emergency. Topics include: Spill response procedures, decontamination, personal protective equipment, respiratory protection, chemical storage and handling, and more. Registration fee for the course includes a textbook and handout materials.

Your safety is our first priority. Due to the changing nature of COVID-19 restrictions, we will be enforcing the State and Local Government requirements in force at the time of the meeting.
