NEWS FLASH: OSHA has proposed a 500% increase in fines! More changes to work place PPE requirements. Learn some of the changes to workplace safety.

EPA issued a $12 million fine in December 2021 to a large pesticide applicator for failing to follow label instructions. Do you know the rules that could affect you?

Last year alone there were more than 30,000 spills large enough to require reporting to the federal government. Failure to make the necessary notifications can result in substantial fines. Fuel products require reporting in some situations if only one drop is spilled. Do you know what they are?

Do you have fuel tanks? If so, you could be subject to EPA's Spill Prevention, Control, and Countermeasures rule (SPCC). Are you prepared?

An employee placed a zip tie on a fuel dispenser, resulting in a $500,000 clean up, $90,000 fine and criminal charges against the employee. The company was required to pay all clean up costs.

OSHA requires spill response training for employees responding to an emergency. Responding to a spill utilizing your own personnel and equipment costs a fraction of what an environmental contractor would charge you. Even after a traffic accident regardless of fault any spilled fuel products or pesticides must be cleaned up! Sigma Consulting & Training, Inc. is offering chemical spill response training in your area to prepare your employees to respond to an emergency. Topics include: Spill response procedures, decontamination, personal protective equipment, respiratory protection, chemical storage and handling, and more. Registration fee for the course includes a textbook and handout materials.
